Harm Reduction Training Resource

NASTAD's Drug User Health Team is pleased to announce the publication of a new resource, National Harm Reduction Technical Assistance Center \(NHRTAC\) Training Deck on Harm Reduction and Syringe Access. The NHRTAC Training Deck on Harm Reduction and Syringe Access is a customizable PowerPoint training designed to provide an overview on the foundations of harm reduction philosophy and practice, drug user health issues and trends, and to increase cultural competence and humility when serving people who use drugs. NASTAD developed this training resource in consultation with our regional TA consultants and other harm reduction subject matter experts. Could be shared with

- State, local and tribal health department staff working with drug user health programs, harm reduction programs, or other public health services for people who use drugs;
- Syringe access program staff, participants, or community members/partners;
- General public seeking information on harm reduction and drug user health.

Training participants will be able to define harm reduction, describe the principles of harm reduction practice, provide examples of harm reduction for people who use drugs, understand the significance of syringe access and safer drug use for individual and public health, and increase knowledge of health and social risk factors related to injecting, smoking, and snorting substances.
